Noted Boston Psychiatrist Tells of Childish Compact Between Youths

DETAILS ARE UNPRINTABLE

Dr. Healy Is Second Alienist Admitted As Witness in Franks Murder Trial

Chicago—Dr. William Healy, Boston psychiatrist, testifying as a defense alienist Monday at the hearing to determine punishment for Richard Leopold and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, asserted "an incredibly absurd childish compact" bound the boys together and had a bearing on the ultimate acts of the youth.

Dr. Healy testified both boys had told him they would again go through the Franks murder if their associations and the conditions were the same. He said Leopold told him he "found nothing to deter him," and that Leopold had said he would commit the crime again, "if it gave him pleasure."

As to the conditions of the "childish compact" which had influenced the later lives of Leopold and Loeb, nothing was said in open court. Judge John R. Caverly ruling with Dr. Healy that the matter was unprintable and having him recite it to the court stenographers for the record.

"Nothing that is unfit for publication is coming out here," Judge Caverly asserted.

Dr. Healy was the second alienist to testify for the defense, and his testimony went in over the state objection. Judge Caverly again ruling that the court had a right to listen to evidence in mitigation of punishment, as he had ruled Friday when the testimony of Dr. William A. White was permitted, making a new departure in Illinois jurisprudence.

The hearing recessed at 12:28 P. M. and Dr. Healy resumed the witness stand when the hearing was resumed at 2 P. M.

The witness proceeded with an analysis of Leopold's character from early childhood, in that closely paralleling the testimony of Dr. White, who had preceded him on the stand.

RAILROAD SERVICE INTERRUPTED BY STORM

Dooms 5 In 3 Years

JUDGE CAVERLY

Chicago—Out of 12 death verdicts returned and sentences pronounced in the criminal court here in the last three years, five have been before Judge John R. Caverly.

This record may or may not be significant as the world waits for Judge Caverly to give his verdict in the case of Richard A. Leopold and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., confessed slayers of Robert Franks. But it is at least something to think about. This is the sort of "friendly judge" the defense drew.

In 1922 he pronounced the only death sentence imposed. In 1923 he sentenced two of the nine men condemned. This year he has already sentenced two, the only death verdicts returned.

The judge was born in England in 1861. He was no pampered child. He worked for what he received and was not graduated from night law school until he was 36 years old. He has been in public office almost continuously since then, as assistant city attorney, city attorney, police magistrate and judge.

C.—American Charge Schoenfeld at Mexico City reported Monday to the state department that he had taken up with the Mexican government the case of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject who was shot and killed and that the Mexican authorities had given assurances that every effort would be made to apprehend and punish the murderers.

A. F. OF L. PUTS OFF DEFENSE DAY PLAN

Atlantic City, N. J.—Politics Monday claimed again the right of way on the schedule of the American Federation of Labor's executive council, in annual session here since last Friday.

Having endorsed the LaFollette-Wheeler candidacies and platform, the council will side track all other matters and undertake to make up its entire 1924 campaign program.

Consideration of the National Defense day issue which unexpectedly was listed on the order of business after the council sessions began and since has been deferred from day to day, was postponed once more.

This question probably will come up for action Wednesday or Thursday.

PARTY COFFERS AWAIT FLOOD OF GOLD FOR FIGHT

Preliminary Surveys Fail to Reassure Politicians Seeking Financial Aid

TRY OUT NEW MACHINERY

Calm Satisfaction of Business Interest Accounts for Lack of Support

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.
New York—Preliminary surveys of the usual "source of supply" are said to be anything but reassuring to the politicians charged with raising the "wind" for the coming campaign.

There has been no great rush to contribute to the coffers of either one of the old parties, while the Progressives are faced with the necessity of an intensive beating of the bushes.

Nevertheless the strongboxes are being made ready with the confident hope that as the fight gets under way the streams of gold will flow a little more freely.

Both the Republicans and the Democrats are to experiment with new money raising machinery and personnel. The Republicans will miss the guiding hand of Fred Upham, the extortress, whose dividing rod never failed to tap the reserve of treasure. Mr. Upham, single handed and alone, raised something like $9,000,000 during his terms with the national committee. That is a record which no successor is likely to equal in the near future.

William V. Hoag of Denver, the new treasurer of the Republicans, is making his headquarters in Chicago, and is being given all possible assistance by Chairman Butler. Recently Mr. Hoag was in New York, where it is expected a goodly part of both Republican and Democratic purses are to be raised.

BUSINESS IS PLACID

The difficulty with the situation as it exists today is that the moneyed interests fail to view the outlook with alarm. A calm satisfaction with political prospects seems to pervade the entire financial district and unless a real scare can be thrown into the vicinity of Wall Street, some of the old sources of revenue may prove to be "dusters" this year.

Treasurer Hoag has the books of the previous campaigns, and also the sources from which the big Republican deficit after the 1920 campaign was wiped out. With these in hand he may be able to do a little forceful talking during the next few weeks.

The Democrats have been hopeful that they would enjoy a fatter year than they have known for a decade. Their plans of campaign have been based on that hope. Four years ago they conducted a starvation fight. But just where the bulk of the money is to come from this time no one seems to know. The Democrats have not any books that are of value as a guide to them. In this respect the Republicans have a distinct advantage. Also the Republicans have a long list of "regular" who have been contributing for years. The Democrats must in some manner mobilize the "volunteers."

The slowness with which money is coming in may account in some measure for the lack of speed which is characterizing the campaign. Of course the late dates of the notification ceremonies have had a great deal to do with the slowing up process and both sides are looking for things to hum after the leading candidates of finally take the field.

LA FOLLETTE GIVES GOMPERS THANKS FOR HIS SUPPORT

Progressive Leader Says Importance of Move Can't Be Overestimated

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Senator LaFollette sent a telegram Monday to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, expressing "deep appreciation" for the endorsement given his independent candidacy for president by the federation's executive committee. The importance of the support, he believed, could not be overestimated.

The telegram sent to Mr. Gompers at Atlantic City follows:

"I desire to express my deep appreciation for the action taken by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in endorsing the candidacy of Senator LaFollette and myself in taking this step after deliberate judgment of the American federation of labor has adhered to its radical partisan party. The importance of the support by the American Federation of Labor for the Progressive ticket cannot be overestimated."

"Your executive committee in stating the American Federation's political purpose says: 'Organized Labor owes allegiance to no political party or group it is not partisan to any political party or group. It is partisan to principle—the principles of freedom, justice and democracy.' It seems to me that in this brief paragraph you have set forth a creed of citizenship. If accepted and acted upon by the great body of common citizens, would rapidly make the government of our country what it was intended to be, the people's own instrument of service."

Machine Is Cut Loose From Ship

Lieutenant Wade and Mechanic
Arthur M. Ogden Chagrined
By Ill Fortune Near End of Flight.

By Associated Press
Aboard U. S. Richmond—The "Boston," the airplane piloted by Lieutenant Leigh Wade in the American air world flight, was abandoned early Monday morning. The plane was taken in tow by the Richmond Sunday after Lieutenant Wade and his mechanic, Sergeant Arthur M. Ogden, had been forced down at sea by engine trouble while negotiating the hop from Kirkwall, in the Orkneys to Iceland.

The Richmond's effort to salvage the wrecked machine was abandoned when the machine, which had been gradually filling while being towed in a heavy sea, capsized. Seeing the hopelessness of attempting further to save it, the officers cut it adrift. The Richmond then turned about and made for Reykjavik, Iceland.

Lieutenant Wade, on board the Richmond, was chagrined over the fate that had brought his plane to grief and stopped the participation of himself and Sergeant Ogden in the flight when it was so near a conclusion, but he took the disappointment well. Describing his experiences, Lieutenant Wade said:

"It was the first time we had had trouble with the oil pump and our second forced landing in the 15,000 mile flight. The first was on the Japanese coast when we came down for water."

"On yesterday's flight, when the trouble came, we signalled Lieutenant Smith by waving that we were forced down; also that the engine was out of commission, requesting him to advise the patrol. We expected to remain in the water until the Richmond arrived. We saw a merchant vessel at 2 o'clock in the afternoon but could not attract its attention. An hour later the trawler which rescued us was sighted. We did to signal her with pistol and rifle before they noticed us."

Lieutenant Wade said he and Ogden were afraid at first to eat the sandwiches and drink the water they had, not knowing how long it would be before they were rescued, but did not at any time consider their position critical. Their main anxiety was to save the plane and continue the flight after repairs had been made.

"It was a tough break after the five months' flight," said Wade, "as when the four planes left America the army hoped all four would return."

"It's all in the game. We did our best."

TRAINS FROM SOUTH HALTED BY WASHOUTS

Worst Electrical Storm of Season Causes Heavy Damage
All Over State

HOME HIT BY LIGHTNING Damage to Crops Will Run Into Thousands of Dollars,
Farmers Say

Train service between Appleton and Milwaukee is temporarily interrupted, electric light and power and telephone service was impaired, grain crops were laid low, a home was struck by lightning and other damage was caused Sunday by the worst electrical storm of the season.

Big washouts on the Chicago and Northwestern railway at Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Kewaskum and Fredonia made it impossible to send trains over the northern Wisconsin division, while the Lake Shore division and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway between Milwaukee and Green Bay also are said to be hampered by the great rain fall which amounted to more than three and a half inches in this region. A half mile of track is out at Fredonia.

NO TRAINS RUNNING

Although trains on the Ashland division of the Northwestern road, the St. Paul railway and the Soo line have not been interfered with, trains have arrived from the south since the one that was due here at 2:35 in the morning. A train from the north due here at 3:47 arrived about 9 o'clock but got no further than Oshkosh where a washout blocked it. Other trains were held at Milwaukee until repairs on the roads are completed. It was expected that traffic will be resumed before nightfall.

Crews of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company were kept busy all night Sunday repairing damage to the company lines which will run into several thousand dollars. The crews were to be kept at work repairing storm damage all day Monday and all Monday night also.

Serious trouble in at least three large transformers at Darby was 7 large transformers was located by Monday morning. The top of one of the transformers at Darby was blown off, throwing a section of the Kimberly line out of order. Another transformer was burned out at Menasha. Although transmission lines were working quite satisfactorily, burned out fuses were common in Appleton, the Wisconsin Telephone company were damaged but telephone service was not interrupted. While there was local trouble at Oshkosh, little of it was experienced here. Telegraph lines also were handicapped, and the Associated Press leased wire suffered thereby.

CROPS DAMAGED

It is not possible at this time to estimate the damage to the crops of this county, but numerous fields of grain were flattened by the strong wind which blew Sunday morning, and also Sunday night. The wind and heavy rainfall also helped to beat down corn, and damage orchards. It is believed that the grain was too heavy to rise again after the damage. Scores of apple trees were torn to pieces and apples scattered all over the ground.

Washouts on country roads of this vicinity were not serious, according to reports, although the water rose high in the ditches and creeks. A creek on the A. Frederickson farm on the Neenah rd. filled up to such an extent that it loosened the bridge over which cattle were accustomed to cross. As a consequence the cattle could not come home Monday morning to be milked.

LIGHTNING HITS HOME

The home of Joseph Bremer, 1202 Harris st., was damaged somewhat when struck by lightning at about 9:30 Sunday morning. The fire department was summoned, but the lightning failed to ignite the home.

BOB IS UNDECIDED ON WHEN TO START

Friends Advise LaFollette to Start Campaign in Mid-
September

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Senator LaFollette and his advisers still are undecided as to when they should begin active campaigning. Indications, however, are still that little will be done for a month at least, except routine organization work. Advisability of Senator LaFollette making his initial campaign speech on labor day in some industrial center is being considered, it was said Monday, but some of his friends have advised him to wait until mid-September.

Those who hold this view believe that six weeks of whirlwind campaigning would be the appeal for support for the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket to a peak just before election. They favor a late start also to enable Mr. LaFollette, who recently has been ill, to conserve his strength. Speech-making itineraries are being arranged for Senator LaFollette and his running mate, Senator Wheeler of Montana, but probably they will not be worked out in detail for some weeks. Senator Wheeler is expected to get underway before the end of August on an extensive tour. Senator LaFollette plans to make considerable use of the radio and to deliver addresses in at least a dozen states.

CITY GETS CHECK FOR $16,528 FROM WATER DEPARTMENT

Interest on City's Investment Delayed When Money Is Tied-Up in Materials

A check for $16,528.88 payable to the city general fund was ordered drawn by the Appleton water commission at its meeting in the city hall Friday afternoon, the order representing the 1923 proprietary interest of 5 per cent due the city on its capital investment in the Appleton waterworks. Payment of this order was delayed by the fact that department money was tied up in materials for the installation of new water mains.

A net profit of $1,099.74 also was reported by the water department account for the preceding month.

Following opening of bids on 3,000 feet of cast iron pipe, the National Cast Iron Pipe company of Birmingham, Ala., was awarded the business at a price of $2,293 per running foot.

The quotation of W. S. Patterson, company of Appleton, was accepted on the bid which the department will purchase at the rate of $7.90 per 100 pounds. Fred R. Morris, assistant secretary, was instructed to advertise for bids for 69,000 gallons of fuel oil for use in the Diesel oil engines and the plant oil heating system. The oil is to be delivered over a period of six months.

The commission also authorized the writing of $2,000 additional insurance on the old pumping station now occupied by the Appleton Engraving company. The extra insurance is to protect the addition built this year. A request of the Riverside Fibre and Paper company for an additional fire hydrant on Railroad avenue was endorsed by the commission and a communication to that effect sent to the city council.

BOGUS DRY AGENTS ROB YOUNG WOMAN

Racine—Authorities of Racine and Kenosha counties were searching Saturday for two men, said to have posed as federal prohibition agents and to have robbed Miss Edna Simmons, Sturtevant, of $72 and a ring.

Miss Simmons, daughter of the Milwaukee station agent at Sturtevant, formerly Collins, reported to Racine police that the men stopped her while she was driving north near Winthrop Harbor, Ill., robbed her of her purse and the key to her car, forcing her to walk a distance of 30 miles to her home.

While the police do not doubt the story of the girl, they cannot understand why she failed to notify police at Waukegan or Kenosha of the hold-up or appeal to farmers for assistance.

Miss Simmons said that two men drove up beside her car and forced her to stop. Holding revolvers to her face, they demanded her money and jewelry.

The men, claiming to be federal prohibition agents, then took the key to the car driven by the young woman and told her to move along. Miss Simmons started on her long hike home, arriving there at 6 a. m., Saturday.

Man 74 Years Old Is "R juvenated" In 3 Weeks Without Gland Operation

Kansas Contractor Tells of Wonderful Results Obtained in Test of Recent Discovery.

THOMAS J. GLASCOCK

Prepared especially for acting directly on lower spinal nerve centers and blood vessels. It often produces gratifying benefits in from 24 hours to a few days, according to thousands who have tried it. Enthusiastic users acclaim the compound as giving speedy satisfaction in obstinate cases that had defied all other treatments previously used.

Realizing that thousands of enfeebled, half-alive folk may consider such news "too good to be true," the American distributors have agreed to supply a regular size, full strength treatment of the compound on a guaranteed trial basis to everyone who feels the need of such a preparation. If you wish to test the compound under a money-back guarantee, just send the attached coupon to the Melton Laboratories, 3083 Melton Building, Kansas City, Mo. You may enclose two dollars or pay two dollars and postage on delivery of the plain sealed package, as you prefer. In either case, however, if you report within ten days that you are not satisfied, the laboratories will refund the purchase price upon request. These laboratories are nationally known and thoroughly reliable, so anyone may feel free to accept their guaranteed offer.

In order to find out whether the results were lasting, Mr. Glascock waited six months before reporting on his test of the discovery. On this point he says:

"Every passing day strengthens my conviction that my restoration is not only complete but permanent. I can't express the happiness this great discovery has brought to me. It has made me 'young' again."

Similar reports are being made almost daily. For instance, D. W. Wood of New Orleans, past 60 years of age, says: "The compound has brought me back to as good, healthy physical condition as I enjoyed at 35. I am apparently as supple as at 25 and my eyesight is better than for years. I would not take $5,000 for what the discovery has done for me."

The compound referred to by Mr. Glascock and Mr. Wood is put up in tablets for easy use at home by anyone. It has won the praise of thousands who suffered from nervous exhaustion, diminished or depleted vigor, neurasthenia, premature age and lack of animation and vital force. Elderly people have pronounced it a "fountain of youth."

11,000 BUILDING SOCIETIES IN U. S.

Wisconsin Well Represented at Annual Loan Association Convention

There are now 10,744 building and loan associations in the United States with assets of four billion dollars, according to the report of the secretary of the national organization submitted at the annual convention at Cleveland, a copy of which has just been received by George H. Beckley, secretary of Appleton Building and Loan association.

This is more than one-seventy-fifth of the entire wealth of the United States, the report says. In other words, one-seventy-fifth of all the money in this country is entrusted to building and loan associations. The membership has reached the enormous total of 7,200,000 members. Wisconsin has 137 associations, 123 of which are operating on the monthly payment plan and 13 on the weekly serial plan.

The Wisconsin convention group consisted of six delegates and six alternates, together with 17 visitors, a total of 29, the largest delegation ever attending from this state. Almost every state in the union was represented by one or more delegates. The total registration was more than $800.

ON THE SCREEN

"THE LAMP IN THE DESERT" A SENSATION

Dynamic action, sustained gripping love interest, set in the most mysterious and enchanting land in the world—India, plus an entirely new angle to the eternal triangle situation, makes "The Lamp in the Desert" a sensation on the screen. No picture of the year is so full of the good things that combine to make a really worthwhile picture as this fascinating love story of Ethel Dell's.

Replete with dramatic adventure and thrills galore, with a red-blooded love interest that makes the stories of this woman stand out in the realm of literature as the best of their kind, "The Lamp in the Desert" cannot fail to satisfy the most fastidious movie fan.

In addition to being a great story, well acted and splendidly directed, the picture at the New Bijou raises a very interesting and unusual question—that of what the choice of a woman would be if she suddenly discovered she had two husbands living. The way the story is worked out is dramatic, and keeps the interest up to the highest point.

The picture follows the book in every detail, and in many cases is an achievement over the book. The bizarre settings in the military settlement in India are delightful.

"The Lamp in the Desert" will be the principal attraction at the New Bijou today and Tuesday.

REMARKABLE CAST FOR "SINGLE WIVES"

The phrase "all-star cast" may well have been invented to describe the personnel of the First National production, "Single Wives," which opens a 3 day engagement at the Elito today.

The feature roles are played by Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills, who are seen together on the screen for the first time. Miss Griffith plays the part of Betty Jordan, a role said to be especially suited to her and one giving her excellent opportunity to depict the sort of roles that have made her famous.

Milton Sills plays opposite Corinne Griffith in a role different than anything he has heretofore essayed. In this picture he will be seen as a modern business man in contrast to his work in "The Sea Hawk"—the husband who settled in his home and business, who has left behind him some of that glamour and romance that belong to youth and the days of courtship.

Betty Jordan's mother, Dorothy Van Clark, played by Kathryn Williams, who was selected especially because of her suitability to the role. Lou Tellegen, known to the followers of the stage as leading man to Rejane, Duse and Bernhardt, is the third corner of the triangle.

Henry B. Walthall, the beloved "little colonel" of "Birth of a Nation" fame, plays the role of Franklyn Dexter, who loves Dorothy Van Clark. Walthall is a very human character, differing radically from anything in which he has been seen.

"The Lamp in the Desert" will be the principal attraction at the New Bijou today and Tuesday.

Stylish Fall Hats Soon Will Raid Dad's Purse

In a few short months Father will have to dig into his jeans and in as short a time the husband of the June bride will realize the truth of the saying, "It's not the original price, it's the upkeep." The reason for this is that local milliners are receiving their new fall hats and the array is so tempting that only the bravest woman can resist the lovely new creations that are being unpacked daily.

Some of the prettiest of the new hats are made of velvet and satin or velvet and bengaline. Many of these hats are small and especially adapted to women with bobbed hair, yet they can be had in any model. Black is the favored color, brightened up with vivid shades of red, blue, yellow and green.

One of the most popular materials from which many fall hats are made is duvety. A particularly stunning hat is made of flame duvety, trimmed with black patent leather. Others are trimmed with kid leather in all colors, featuring gilded kid, chenille, handwork and feathers. A pretty Phyllis Haver is one again to be seen in a First National picture, this time in the role of a sweet and happy wife. Phyllis is the Marion Eldridge of the story.

Phillips Smalley as Tom Van Clark, fast-living husband of Dorothy; Jere Austin as the lovable family physician, Dr. Walter Lane, and John Patrick as Billy Eldridge make up the balance of the remarkable cast.

"Single Wives" was directed by George Archambaud from the original screen story by Earl Hudson.

TRADE SYMPTOMS

Some picking up in all lines of business is reported. Seasonal weather is helping out the retailers who have stocks of summer and spring goods remaining, and they are offering their surplus merchandise at bargain prices. Not only is improvement noted in retail lines. Manufacture is somewhat more vigorous than it has been for several months. Increased production is observed in lumber, leather, textiles, tools and machinery.

Preparation for the autumn trade has begun a few weeks earlier than usual. This is due chiefly, no doubt, to curtailed production in the late spring and early summer, as well as to the stimulation based on favorable trade symptoms. The farmer will obtain good prices for his products, and for this everybody is or should be glad, as the farmer will be a seller at most satisfactory terms and a buyer on better conditions than he has enjoyed for years.

Weather, as is generally known, has a direct effect on many branches of business. Millinery presents the clearest illustration of the relationship between seasonal trade and seasonal weather. When the weather is normal, millinery sales are large; when it is abnormal, sales are small. Merchandise suited to seasonal needs sells or stays on shelves, as the weather may be seasonal or unseasonal.

Attention is called this year to the effect of the weather on automobile production and sales. Since the weather has turned warm and people live out of doors, automobile sales have increased. This business is found to be brisk.

Present indications point to good business during August, September and October. Manufacturers feel optimistic about the outlook and are operating on a larger scale than for months. Wholesalers are confident and are laying in new stocks, anticipating increased retail demand. Practically half of this year was made up of unseasonal weather, which had the adverse influence on business. Radical legislation and threats by congress stopped certain large buying. Had not these causes quieted business, this would probably have been nearly a record year. Nevertheless, the trade showing at the close of commercial activity in autumn promises to be gratifying.

HOMEWARD BOUND

The six American airmen who are now returning home from the British isles, via Iceland, Greenland and Labrador, have demonstrated by their performance that the world can be circumnavigated by plane. They have taken their time on the voyage, their object not being to round the earth at high speed, but to show what can be done. Neither steam nor sailing ships can course round the world. Nor can trains or motors. Land stops the ships and water stops the cars. The airplane is the first machine of transportation that has traversed the earth. From this viewpoint the flight of the American airmen is the most stupendous in the history of travel.

That is something to think about. For the first time has man gone round the world in a vessel, a vehicle, which soared over water, over land, over mountain, over valley. The weather and the winds cause some anxiety at present, but they will be inconsequential after regular routes are mapped out and airplane touring is comparatively popular. The fliers have made a wonderful showing. Compare their voyage by airplane with the caravels of Columbus steering into strange waters, or adventurous cavaliers penetrating strange lands on horseback, or the covered wagon rumbling over new paths to the fringe of civilization. Since March the aviators have been in strange lands, strange seas, strange altitudes, strange air-currents, and in a new type of vehicle. They have sailed through uncertainty. One day perhaps we shall wing our way round the earth in a few hundred hours, and the trip will be made in security and comfort. The six airmen, now homeward bound, have demonstrated to us how small the world is.

THAT FARM "WEALTH"

Many a wild conception is being thrown over this year's increase in the value of farm crops. From some of the comments it would seem that the farmer is rolling in wealth, buying phonograph records by the gross, stepping up his radio to catch Hawaii, and trading in the Ford on a fleet of Cunninghams. Starved so recently, he is pictured as surfeited; poverty-stricken a few months back he is now supposedly the favorite of fortune, the bank-breaker in an agricultural Monte Carlo.

Farmer gains are placed by congratulators at from a billion dollars to a billion and a half. As a matter of cold fact, basing the gains on the actual crop destined for market, farmers should have about $180,000,000 added to their income due to the better prices of wheat; $150,000,000 in corn; $262,500,000 or so in cotton, and about $100,000,000 in the other agricultural staples. That runs up to about $700,000,000. Coupled with the continued decline in the prices of other commodities which he must buy, the purchasing power of the farmer's products has jumped to 77 per cent of what it was in 1913.

But there is another angle. When we say the farmer's purchasing power has increased, we ought to take into account his fixed charges—taxes and interest.

His wheat and corn may be able to buy more automobiles; but what if he can't use the increase for that purpose, but must turn it over to the government and to his creditors? Recently the Howard-Moorhouse agricultural business service estimated that farmers in 1913 paid $666,000,000 in direct taxes, mortgages and bank interest; that in 1923 they paid out $1,745,000,000 for the same expenses, and that consequently they are annually more than a billion dollars in the hole as compared to 1913 before they even begin to count their score on this year's winning game.

The farmer who has kept out of debt and lives in a state where taxes are reasonable is undoubtedly fortunate this year. He can hardly fail to have a neat increase to bank in the fall. He can afford luxuries he has had to forego. But over the nation as a whole it is well to speak of the new "wealth" with reservations. Much of it is mortgaged before collection. The greatest hope for the farmer's well-being is that he will apply his increase, not to extravagance but to the removal of his fixed burdens of interest. On taxes he may have to wait.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

BACK HOME

PERHAPS you've been 'way for a number of years: away from mother and dad. And then come the thought that undoubtedly cheers: a feeling that makes you feel glad. You want to go back to see how things look; just to act as you did when a kid. You want to eat food that your mother will cook, and of home-sickness really get rid. You've traveled around in the various states and you've been on your own for a spell. You've left the home ties just to play with the fates for an outcome that no one can tell. Perhaps you've made good or perhaps you've made bad, but whatever your story may be, you always are welcome with mother and dad 'cause it's YOU that they're achin' to see. It's natural for youth to step out in the world. It's natural for young folks to roam. It's nice to go 'way when ambition's unfurled, but it's nice to travel back home. SEPTICEMIA

Septicemia is the usual medical term for the condition which is more familiar to the layman as acute blood poisoning. Many erratic notions, and dangerous notions they are, still cling to the idea of blood poisoning in the lay mind, and these wrong notions are maintained chiefly by the gossip of ignorant people and the unscrupulous play which newspaper reporters and contributors are permitted in the way of putting their imagination into print. For example, there is no dye which can possibly cause blood poisoning. No case of blood poison has ever been caused by rust of verdigris or paint or stain or coloring matter or rouge or cosmetic or hair dye or metallic substance, though it is of course true that chemical poisons are sometimes present in hair-dyes, cosmetics and the like and persons using such things are liable to poisoning. Septicemia or acute blood poisoning is caused only by germs getting into the blood. The germs responsible in most cases of septicemia are the common pus-producing types, such as the streptococci and staphylococci, and these germs gain entrance either directly through some trifling wound of skin or mucous membrane or from some septic focus where they have already found a local footing as in a "gathering in the ear" or tonsillitis or an "ulcerated tooth." The more striking cases of septicemia occur in persons who have had some trifling blister, scratch, cut or puncture of the skin which has not received proper immediate surgical care or first aid treatment. The deadly germs of septicemia are invisible, but ubiquitous and no respecters of ordinary personal cleanliness, and no respecters of the danger of the danger of blood poisoning, although remote, is to be guarded against in every instance of injury or breaking of the skin or mucous membrane, no matter how trifling the injury may seem.

Just why some of us, at least some of the time, have the capacity to resist septic infection of this kind, while others, at least part of the time, seem to have lost that natural immunity or power of resistance, is a question which cannot be finally answered at present. But I venture to suggest here why small wounds heal more promptly in some persons. I think it is principally a question of sepsis, surgical cleanliness, proper immediate first aid care. Surgical cleanliness and ordinary esthetic cleanliness have practically nothing in common. I have tried to explain the vital difference between these two kinds of cleanliness many times. There is room here to say just this: Disease germs never travel or forage for prey but only where they are carried; and being invisible they are often present on surfaces which are aesthetically clean. For instance, your fingers, or your family box of salve, is out of place to attempt to describe septicemia here. But we should all know the warning signals, the signs of beginning blood poisoning, which are as follows: Onset of pain, throbbing, swelling or redness about the wound some hours after the injury. Reddish streaks following the lymph channels up the arm or leg from the wound. Chills, feverishness, malaise.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Tansy Tea

Are tansy leaves put into a quart of water and boiled to a tea good for a person to take when they are in a run down condition? (S. G. C.)
Answer.—Tansy tea has caused death in some cases, so I should say a person ought to wait until he is in the best possible condition before taking anything like that. It seems to cause convulsions, coma, heart failure and paralysis of respiration.

To Conceal White Spots

Please reprint the formula for a kind of paint to conceal white spots in the skin.
Answer.—Two teaspoonfuls of glycerin, half an ounce of zinc oxide, half an ounce of calamin, half a pint of water. Add to this mixture ichthyol drop by drop until you get a tint to match the normal skin.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Monday, Aug. 7, 1899.

Robert Green left for Minneapolis on business. Miss Katherine Reeve was the guest of Miss Jennie Brett at Green Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rose and children of Chicago were visiting Appleton relatives.

Miss Nona McGillan was the guest of relatives at Escanaba.

The Rev. W. J. Fitzmaurice returned from Stevens Point, where he attended the funeral of the Rev. W. S. Clifford.

J. Jacoby, cigar manufacturer, gave his employees an outing at Strobe's Island.

Julius Kahn returned from a business trip to the northern part of the state.

Anton Ritger, Reno and Roscoe Clark, Sheriff William Wilson, George Ashman and B. J. Zuehlke visited Hortonville and Stephenville friends.

Station Agent L. D. Smith of the St. Paul road received a request from the division superintendent of Green Bay to procure laborers for the gravel trains at Iron Mountain. The company increased the wages from $1.35 to $1.50 per day.

New boilers were placed during the week in Willy & Co.'s mill, Telulah mill and Kimberly mill. Funeral services for W. B. Parkes, father of Mrs. C. W. Treat, were held at Milwaukee Monday afternoon.

TEN YEARS AGO

Monday, Aug. 3, 1914.

French arms scored a victory in a sharp and bloody engagement at Petite Croix. A corps of Uhlans attacked the French forces entrenched just behind the town. A strong Russian column of infantry and artillery crossed the German frontier at Schwierden. Germans made their first capture of war prisoners near Hobenzollern. Fifty Cosacks were surprised and overthrown by German frontier guards. Following a speech of Sir Edward Gray which showed conclusively that the British cabinet was for war with Germany, the house of Commons recessed until the following morning. The first naval battle of the war was staged at Libau, Russia, where a German cruiser fired the seaport and overwhelmed a Russian cruiser.

No word had been received from any of the Appleton people in Europe and it was considered unlikely that anything would be heard from them for some time.

Because of the war scare in Europe a number of aliens applied at the office of the clerk of courts at the courthouse and were taking out their first naturalization papers.

Isaac Stephenson of Marinette made an announcement that under no circumstances would he be a candidate for reelection to the United States senate.

The voting machines were not to be used in the city at the primary election Sept. 1.

Capt. John Conroy and George Brautigan left for Racine to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's association.

Kaukauna will have to grow some in order to catch up with Little Chute, observed a traveling salesman after becoming absorbed in the two signs where the city limits of these two municipalities adjoin. One of the signs informs the wayfarer that it is only a half mile to Kaukauna, while the other sign just a few feet away tells the world that it is all of one and a half miles to Little Chute.

Next time you see one of those strenuous love scenes on the screen just remember they are getting plenty of coaching from the side lines. And there might be a suggestion in that for you if you have a small brother or sister.

If Appleton liked the carnival companies half as much as the companies seem to like our town, the lot wouldn't be big enough to hold the crowd. Appleton has shown them the gate and so has the town of Menasha. But the carnival people must have playmates, and Calumet's farmer boys must have some means of spending their money.

Dear Rollo: Ordinarily the greased pig, like greased lightning and wet soap, gets away. But will you tell me the name of the soluble with which police caught that automobile thief last week? Paper says, "Fat intervened in the adventure of the thief." Let's have it. Maybe it would be better than burglary insurance.

Bright Pupil

Also Problem

To Educators

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—Putting intelligence tests to use in the public schools has started a series of new educational problems. In the unenlightened days, before intelligence tests made it possible to sort out children according to their brains and capacity, learned educators planned the work of each school grade to suit the average child of a given age. Progressive cities provided a typical school for the abnormal, for all children—the obviously feeble minded and undeveloped. But the rest of the children worked together, regardless of mentality. Dull pupils struggled along and bright pupils loafed, while the great majority plodded.

Then, methods of testing made it possible for a teacher to recognize the incipient genius, the high grade moron, and other degrees of mentality. To date, the intelligence tests are neither perfect nor infallible; but they are reasonably accurate and they are already widely used by teachers. They have shown that, roughly, about two-thirds of the pupils in a school room can be properly graded as average. Almost always there are several exceptionally bright children, and almost always there are exceptionally dull children, and then there are border line cases, brighter than average and dumber than average. There is a fact which intelligence tests make clear to any one. Doing something about it is not so simple.

DULL ONES ALWAYS HELPED

The dull pupils are being provided for much more quickly than the bright children. The dull child in a schoolroom is a drag on the class, and a burden to the teacher. If he stays in school any length of time, his slow progress makes him a source of heavy expense to the city. Yet education is compulsory, and he must attend school at least until he reaches the age limit. Many public school systems are establishing coaching schools and special classes for those slow minded or retarded pupils who are not atypical.

The bright pupils do not ordinarily worry the teacher nor the city by their brilliance, and so they have not been regarded as so urgent a problem. For a number of years past, however, in private schools, to provide more efficient education for them. The usual solution of the problem is to permit a pupil to skip a grade or half a grade if the work he is doing is too easy.

The arguments in favor of this rapid promotion for bright children are that the children save time by completing the school course more quickly; that the children are put in classes where the work is difficult enough to stimulate them to real effort, and that a city saves money, because it costs from $50 to $120 a year to educate each pupil in a public school system.

DIFFER ON METHODS

This is the easiest way of "doing something about the bright child." Some idealistic educators, however, oppose the idea that a child should be placed in school according to his mental age, and their objections are worth considering.

They hold that mentality is only one factor in a child's development. Anna Gillingham of the Ethical Culture school in New York has said: "The brilliant pupil of 10 or 11 has the instincts and emotions of a little

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

IS "THE PLASTIC AGE" TRUE?

A good deal of abuse has been heaped upon the head of Percy Marks for writing "The Plastic Age," that devastating study of present day college life. It is denied that he was "fired" from the faculty of Brown university because of the publication of the book but it seems quite likely that he would have been discharged after its publication if he had not happened to be let out before the volume appeared.

And college men in many parts of the country have been loud in their condemnation, claiming that Percy Marks has slandered the American college. Marks himself believes, according to his book, that the alumni of the American college are to blame for most of the faults of the institutions of learning; he thinks the alumni are sentimentalists about their colleges, that they are unwilling to look facts in the eye, and that they talk drivel about the "good old college days," that they are largely to blame for converting the American college into a more athletic club.

It may be admitted at the start that "The Plastic Age" contains much that is far from "nice." Almost every page contains several swear words. And they are swear words unadulterated, not mere suggestions of them. They are the real article spoken by the characters with zest and gusto. Also, there are scenes that a certain type of reader will call "realistic" though why a scene in which sex figures should be more "realistic" than any other kind of scene is incomprehensible. There are pictures of college boys and girls drunk at college dances, of debauchery in fraternity houses, of "tull sessions" in which the talk of the college men is so degrading that even the men themselves feel unclean when they return to their rooms. In brief, the characters in the book would call the book "hot stuff."

DAMNED FOR WRITING BOOK

And Percy Marks has been roundly damned for writing that kind of a book about college life of today. And perhaps he should be condemned but not for the reason for which he is usually blamed. Some call the book "realistic" and seem to think they have said something; some go a little further and call it vulgar. And thousands probably read it because they are looking for something spicy. But all heap blame on Marks' head because he wrote the kind of book he did.

It does not seem to occur to these critics to ask the very reasonable question: "Is the book true?" But all depends on that. Obviously if the book tells the truth about college life it justifies itself. Then the fault does not lie with Percy but with college life. If American college students drink and swear and dissipate as much as the book represents them doing then the criticism should be directed against college life, not against the man who gives a faithful picture of that life.

NOT ALL TRUE

I doubt whether the book is altogether true. I suspect that it is overdrawn and does the same kind of injustice to the college of today that "Main Street" does to the small town. There is probably much truth in the book but it is very likely that it is not the whole truth, that the better side of college life is left out of the picture. Marks himself seems to be conscious of this and in the concluding pages he has a college instructor point out the redeeming features of the college of the story. But those redeeming features do not appear in the action of the story.

But the question of the veracity of the author seems to me the only one worth considering. Percy Marks sets out to draw a picture of life in a present-day American college. He takes a typical American boy through four years of college and he purports to tell the story exactly as it is. He has a right to choose such a theme and he stands or falls by his faithfulness to fact.

Innumerable college stories have been written and most of them are worthless because they lie in another way. They romanticize the college boy and they leave out of the picture all the darker shades. Even if Percy Marks has allowed himself to go to the opposite extreme, he is no more worthy of blame than the liars of the other type.

The skirt is composed of tiny half-pleats and is added to the upper portion with a heading of about an inch which makes a distinctive finish.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO ALICE HAMILTON
DEAR LITTLE SISTER:
Of course I was very much surprised when your cable came telling me of your engagement to Karl and then, thinking over the matter, I decided that I oughtn't to be surprised, for I think, my dear, you always intended to marry him.
Don't be angry at that; I do not mean it is cruel: as it sounds.
Most girls intend to marry the men they do marry long before the men themselves have the slightest inkling of what is before them.
Had I never met Jack, probably some day I would have married Karl myself, but having met my husband I could of no more married any other man than I could have taken my own life.
I am sure I hope you will be very happy. Alice dear and I see no reason why you will not, for you are going to marry one of the best men in all this world, the man who will probably live only to make you happy.
I am glad for your sake that he is rich, for I do not think that you could be very happy without money.
I remember that you said as much when I married Jack.
Of course I am glad that Karl gave you another string of pearls "better than the ones he gave me," but honestly dear, I am a little bit sorry that you told me of it in your first cable. It makes me feel as though you always envied me the pearls.
When you come home if you wish them I will give them back to you as your wedding present. I have lost a few of them as perhaps you know, but because of my ignorance of their worth at first, and my knowledge of their value after, they have always been of great annoyance and sorrow to me. I really wish you would take them. I have not worn them for a great while and I would be much happier if they were not resting in my jewel safe.
You will probably not have time to answer this letter for mother carries me that you are sailing very soon.
I know that you will be mad over my baby, Alice. He is the sweetest thing on this earth.
Yesterday I am almost sure he said "Mama," although Jack laughed at me and insisted that he only had a pain in his little tummy.
What a lovely time you have had this last year. You have been presented at the English court and had all the attention paid to you that any girl could wish, and now you are coming back to marry one of the richest and noblest young men in America. I hope you appreciate your blessings.
I expect mother will cable when you start. Jack and I and the baby

Adventures Of The Twins

THE YELLOWBILLS CHUTE-THE-CHUTES
"Good morning, Mister Zip!" said
Mrs. Yellowbill Duck as she waddled through the turnstile of Happy Go Lucky Park, followed by her six children.
"Good morning, Mrs. Yellowbill!"
nodded the little fairyman in a friendly way. Mister Zip was in a very good humor because business was so good.
"Good morning, Mrs. Yellowbill!"
said Nick and Nancy as the duck lady and her family approached the lemonade, lollypop, ice cream cone stand.
"Good morning!" quacked Mrs. Yel-lowbill pleasantly. "What kind of lollypops do you have today?"
"Crab, watermelon, cornmeal and lettuce," said Nick, picking out the flavors that he thought the duck children would like.
"Crab! I want a crab lollypop," quacked Davy Duck. "I just love crab flavoring!"
"Do you have any lollypops flavored with frogs?" asked Dolly Duck. "I think frog flavoring is better than vanilla or peppermint or anything."
"What's that?" seemed a big voice nearby. "Who is it that likes frog flavoring? I'd like to know!"
"And there stood big green Grand-daddy Frog looking over his glasses as cross as two sickles.
"We were just saying," remarked Mrs. Yellowbill loudly, as she waddled up close to Granddaddy, "that we all liked frog flavoring very, very much indeed." And as she finished speaking, she didn't close her mouth at all but held it open so wide that Granddaddy didn't need his glasses to see half way down her throat.
"I heard you the first time," said Granddaddy, hastily backing away to the place where his grandsons were waiting for him in the woods. "Come, boys, we'll go and chute-the-chutes. I can't stand here all day talking about lollypops."
"What was she saying about chute-the-chutes?" asked Mrs. Yellowbill, nervous. "Did I hear him say that he was going to shoot something?"
"He's just going to chute-the-chutes," said Nick. "It's a sort of roller coaster that chutes you off into the water and you get all splashed.
I think that you and the children would like it."
"Why, I believe we would," said Mrs. Yellowbill. "Hurry, children, pick out your lollypops and we'll be going. Whatever it means to chute-the-chutes, I don't know, but if it is something that splashes you, I'm sure we shall like it."
She paid for the lollypops and tucked ed her big pocketbook under her wing and away they all went, wiggling their tails and all talking at once, and by and by they came to the place where a big sign said
"Chute-the-Chutes, 5 cents a Ride."
"You get six tickets for a quarter," said Nick, who had followed along to see that the duck lady didn't get lost.
"Make it seven and I'll come," said
Mrs. Yellowbill.
"All right," said Nick.

KAUKAUNA IS ON EDGE AS PAGEANT WEEK IS STARTED

Big Cast Is Ready for First Performance on Tuesday Evening

Although Sunday's storm made it impossible to hold the dress rehearsal scheduled for Sunday afternoon, everything is in readiness for the first performance of the Pageant of Kaukauna in the Beaulieu hall the Tuesday evening. Costumes arrived on Saturday, final light installations have been made, the amphitheatre is in shape for use and everything else is in readiness for the opening performance.

The pageant will be shown every night beginning tomorrow until Sunday night. Rain during the day will not interfere with the night performance and it was announced that none of the performances will be called out unless there is a heavy and continuous rain after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The natural drainage of the theatre is so good that the hillsides are dry a few minutes after a rain, so there will be no discomfort.

Tremendous efforts were necessary the last few weeks to whip the production in shape. Director Howard F. Smith and his assistant, William H. Beyer, have been working day and night with the cast and after more than a month of strenuous labor they are ready to offer the finished production.

There need be no fear that it will be difficult to hear in any part of the big theatre. The arrangement of the hills makes for excellent acoustics and it is easy to hear and see from every part of the big playground.

Adequate arrangements have been made for parking automobiles in Kaukauna baseball park, across the street from the theatre. Several special officers will be on hand to protect the property and to regulate traffic. Provisions have been made to take care of 3,000 cars and it is said they all can be driven out of the park without confusion, in 15 minutes.

Flint Is City With Two Mayors Running Affairs

Flint, Mich.—This is a city with two mayors.

And both are trying to run its affairs. David B. Cuthbertson, recalled at a special election July 15, refuses to abdicate the mayor's office to Judson Transue, elected, with the aid of the Ku Klux Klan, to serve out the unexpired term of eight months.

With Cuthbertson still holding down the mayor's easy chair and still riding in the mayor's big limousine, Transue, duly sworn in, is walking to work and conducting the city's official business from the city clerk's office.

Barry Sturdevant, official secretary to the mayor, is having the busiest time of his career.

When anybody drops around to see the mayor, he is compelled to ask, "Which mayor?"

Transue, immediately after being sworn in, went to the mayor's mansion to take charge. Cuthbertson, however, still sat in the big easy chair at the mayor's desk. And he refused to budge a foot.

He asked Transue if he personally would undertake the putting out job. Transue replied he might, if it wasn't for the fact that he was suffering from sciatic rheumatism.

"You couldn't put me out, anyway," retorted the husky Cuthbertson, once a lumberjack.

"Don't be too sure about that," replied his rival. "I used to be a pretty good boxer."

Cuthbertson was swept into the mayor's office in April, 1923, largely through the women's help. But soon after he took up the reins recall rumblings began to be heard. They materialized this spring. And after the recall had carried, Cuthbertson became a candidate to succeed himself. He received 10,024 votes against 11,483 polled by Transue.

Cuthbertson, however, contends there were irregularities in the election. In one precinct, more votes were cast than there were voters, he insists.

And he'll stay in office, he declares, until he is "thrown out."

BELOW—JUDSON TRANSUE.

CAR BLOWS UP WHEN IT GOES IN DITCH DURING HEAVY RAIN

Appleton People Returning from Wausau, Lose Car Near New London

A touring automobile owned by Louis Nieland, 697 Commercial-st., was totally destroyed when it exploded and burned while it was being towed out of a ditch near the William Mecler farm on County Trunk D. between New London and Sugar Bush, about 11 o'clock Sunday night. Mrs. Nieland was brushed about the arms when the car went into the ditch. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reichel, Summerset, were accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Nieland from Wausau when the accident occurred.

Mr. Nieland's car slid into the ditch when it turned out to pass another car during a heavy storm. A truck was procured to tow out the towed machine and when Mr. Nieland started the engine to assist in climbing back on the road there was an explosion and in a few minutes the car was wrapped in flames. Mr. Nieland was the only one in the car when it blew up, but he was not hurt. The Nielands had owned the car only about two weeks.

DRIVER BACKS FROM CURB INTO STREET CAR'S PATH

An automobile driven by John Grootement, 340 Pacific-st., was damaged slightly by an eastbound street car on College-ave Saturday noon. The automobile had been parked in front of the Baltimore lunch room and as it was being backed out from the curb, it was struck in the rear by the street car which was operated by Motorman Earl Laux. The tire carrier was bent and the body of the automobile was dented. The street car was not damaged.

THE PETTIBONE-PEABODY CO ORIENTAL RUG SECTION

YOUR PRICELESS ORIENTAL RUGS

Have Them Renovated, Repaired or Appraised by an Expert

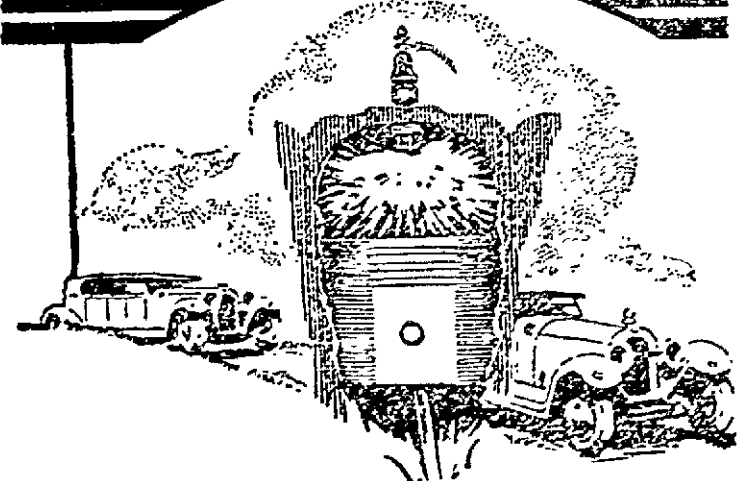

HUNDREDS of thousands of dollars' worth of fine Oriental Rugs are in Appleton homes and our neighboring cities. These rugs have been collected at various times in all parts of the world. Some are heirlooms of priceless value.

At Pettibone's there is a service which will be of interest to these owners of fine Oriental Rugs. We will renovate them, repair them and appraise them. Many owners have discovered that they own rugs on which they have placed a valuation too low. They take renewed interest in their own rugs when they find how valuable they are—and how improved they look when properly renovated by an expert.

In order to secure the proper insurance protection, owners of Oriental Rugs should know exactly what rugs are worth today.

A telephone call will bring Mr. Gabriel to your home by appointment. This call brings no obligation to you. If after a consultation, you desire some renovating, some repairs or an appraisal, Mr. Gabriel will tell you exactly what the service will cost.

Mr. Gabriel, of the firm of Cartozian and Gabriel, is a resident of Appleton, and entirely responsible. His work is guaranteed by his own firm as well as The Pettibone-Peabody Co.
